Spalding's company provides customized style, design, and planning services for weddings, events, fundraisers, as well as interior design services.

An involved community volunteer, Spalding's leadership activities include creation, planning, and executing The Pink Gala; Board member of the Boys and Girls Club of Williamson County; Mercy Children's Clinic, named 2009 Volunteer of the Year; Hard Bargain Building Hope for the Future Celebration event; and Franklin Tomorrow's Princess Ball 2011 event. Spalding honors the memory of her mom with The Pink Gala; she donated funds raised to the Breast Health Center of Williamson Medical Center.

Spalding attended the University of Kentucky, continuing her education at O'More School of Design where she crafted her event planning and interior design expertise.

An advocate for at risk youth and affordable housing in Franklin, Spalding feels increased awareness of these issues is extremely important.

With respect to Leadership Franklin, Spalding feels the opportunity will provide a better understanding of all areas of our community. She states, "I would utilize my experience to increase awareness and participation in community events and volunteer opportunities."
