

Sandy Wray
Retired Facility Assignment Specialist, AT&T

Recruited by South Central Bell (AT&T) 34 years ago, Wray had responsibilities centered on working with the field technicians to ensure repairs and/or connectivity for customers. She currently actively serves the community spanning the business and industry, civic, religious, human service, and government arenas, including Franktown Open Hearts, serving as a Board Member; United Community Resources Foundation Board Member; member and trustee with the First Missionary Baptist Church; and since 1993, an involved volunteer with the Williamson County Jail Ministry.

A lifetime Williamson County resident, Wray feels strongly about the importance of assisting individuals in our society that are experiencing despair or are in trouble, letting them know there is hope. She feels a responsibility to champion the “have not” sector of Williamson County’s population. Affordable housing is critical to the success of our community and the well-being of all citizens.

Wray attended Middle Tennessee State University where she was recognized for academic excellence by induction in the Gamma Beta Phi Society. She continues her education at Tennessee State University.

With regards to Leadership Franklin, in her words Wray states, “I hope to utilize the experience to be a voice for those who have been silenced or shut down, for whatever reason. Some of the things that take place within this county will probably become clearer after this experience.”
